LISTENING

Listening is so important in the Suzuki Method. The more you listen, the less you will need to practice to learn new pieces. We have found great success with at least two hours listening per day. Some students listen in the car, some listen on the phone, some listen on a cd player, and some listen on Alexa! Try just 2 weeks of playing the recording softly in the background while doing schoolwork, bath time, or lego/play time. If you are like me, you may need to set up a reminder to turn the music on. Let me know if you notice a difference in your practices.

Sometimes it is nice to download a new/different version.

New recording, released last week -

We have several openings for violin, viola and cello students - all levels and all ages, beginners through advanced.

We are also offering coaching with practice. Please share!
